NOTE.

It will have appeared to many readers that the notes made by Wood, and Rawlinson (more particularly) contain inaccurate and incomplete information. The Editor would be very glad to have corrections sent to him with a view to embodying them in an appendix.

It has been suggested that members would like to have binding covers for these volumes. If a sufficient number are applied for the Hon. Secretary will try to arrange for their preparation. The cost would probably be about 3s. 6d. each.

Subscriptions become due on January 1st. It is a great help if they are paid punctually.

For list of officers and members see end of this volume.

[14 Aug. 1657.]

At Dorchester in ye County of Oxon. is an Abbay of Black Channons founded (as Leland saith) by Alexander Bishop of Lincoln, for when the bishoprick was translated from hence to Lincoln Remigius who was ye first of that place (temp. W. Con.) caused (as some of ye inhabitans say) an Abbay here to be erected by reason that it should not utterly fall into oblivion, some say that this Abbay was built with ye stones that came from ye Bishops pallace which is on ye right hand at ye townes end as you come from Oxon.

There is noe signe of this bishops pallace now, but a few hillockes there to be seene; there is a house that standeth there now that the Towne call bishops court.

The frontispeice of ye Abbay of Dorchester standeth at ye West end of the church and ye rest of ye Building run behind ye north side. The outside of ye Abbey is built all of free stone 3 story high, but ye inside next to ye court, all of timber. The limits of the Abbey run most on ye north side of ye church; there be great slatted barnes supported with pillars that are yet standing and belonging to Mr. Clerke who hath ye farme House which (as some say) was part of Abbey. This farme and ye court leet belongs to Mr. Fettiplace (an old Batchelour) of Swinebrook neare Burford.

There be very pleasant walkes in ye grounds below ye Abbey, all shadowed with elmes, and ye River Tame running thereby.

When ye schoole house was built by John Feteplace Esq. an ancient Bachelaur, which was some 3 yeare agoe [i.e. in 1652], at ye West end of ye Church, in digging thereof there were discovered certain little roomes under ground, some paved very smoothly with ye hard white stone, and some brickt round, in one of ye Roomes was an hearth in the middle much like those in your Colledge Halls.

Mr. David Thomas that is now scholmaster (lately usher of Thame Schoole) told me that in digging at ye W. end of ye Church there was found a small vault that would hold 3 or 4 men, and at the top was a tonnel much like to a chymnye but something larger, he told me that he thought when the Abbey was standing that ye tonnel did goe up higher in ye uppermost Roomes and therin to convey themselves in times of inquisition or persecution by a long rope, but my opinion is that it was a place of punishment: the vestall nunns at Rome had such places of punishment: v. Godwin: p. 14 edit. 1638.

There was a cloister on ye N. side of the Church that led from ye Abbey to a N. isle adjoyning thereunto.

At ye foot of ye high Alter in ye Chancell lye 3 blew marble stones, and thereon the pictures of hands holding long crosiers, whether or noe these were bishops I cannot well tell, the inscriptions that are in Saxon letters are worn all off, saving one of them which is partly legible.

On ye left hand of these 3 stones is another flatt marble, and thereon a man cutt in a plate of Brasse, with his head shaven and a crosier in his hand and togated, with this epitaph:—

There is an inscription coming out of his mouth which is: O Dulcis mater virgo virginum ora pro nobis tuum filium.

What this man was I cannot rightly judge, if he was a bishop he would have had a mitre as well as a crosier, and a pall as well as a gowne, if he had been an Abbat he would have had no crosier in his hand, but Mr. Thomas told me that he was a rich man in ye towne, and moreover that he or some of his Ancestors bought ye est part of ye church and added it to ye parochie church, and was counted a great benefactor thereunto; Leland doth speake of a rich man that dwelt in Dorchester that gave 140 pounds for the east part of church, but whether this was the man, I cannot rightly judge: look more in my collections of Lelands Itiner.

Ye aforesaid Sr. Ric. Bewforest was Abbat Dorchestr.

Ab.; he made his will A. 1554 bequeathing his body to be buried in our Lady Isle in Dorchester Church.

But I think Sir Richard Bewforest was a priest and quite different from the Richard Bewforest gent. of the parish of Dorchester, son of Thomas Bewforest of Cornwall gent., who by his will, which I have seen, dated 13 July 1554, doth bequeath his body to be buried in the Lady Isle of Dorchester, and gives the Abbey church of Dorchester, which he had bought, to the towne of Dorchester. This will was proved 8 June 1555. He left issue behind him Luke his eldest son, who married Mary daughter of Rob. Edgerley of Great Milton, and Richard unmarried; also 3 daughters, of which one, named Anne, was married to Robert Lyde alias Joyner of Dorchester, another to ye Joyners of Horspath.

Under ye Communion table in ye middle of ye Quier is a white stone inlaid round with black letters, viz.: Hic jacet dns. Rogerus quondam prior prioratus de Routon in com. Stafordie postea Abbas monasterii de Dorchester Lincoln: Dioces: necnon epus Lidensis, cujus Anime, &c.

The portrature of this man is cut on ye stone with a crosier in his hand but what Lidensis signified I do not certainly know.

At ye head of this former is another blew marble stone with the effigies of two kneling, but all toren off and gone.

As you come in ye chancell at ye Head of the former is ye portrature of a man cutt in brasse all in armor and a lyon at his head with 4 scucheons about him, but all toren off and gone. Leland in his Itenirarie sayes that he was a gentleman named Ways.

I take this person to be the same with Sir Gilbert Wace who was living at Ewelme 51 Ed. III and 9 Hen. IV, as it appears in a Leiger Book, sometimes in the hands of ye Lady Penelope Dynham of Borstall in Bucks.

On the south side of ye chancell layes one Stoner (upon a low tombe of freestone) as appears by his Armes round about, there is a Lyon laying at his feet and hath his judges robes on, he was judge in K. Edward ye 3^d time.

At the Head of Stoner layeth an Armed Knight with a sheild upon his left arme and he adrawing his sword, he layeth cross legg'd upon a freestone tombe. Camden in Oxfordshire saide that the aforesaid Stoner, viz. Sr. John was chief justice in ye common pleas: vid. plu.

On ye north side of ye Chancell layeth a Knight upon a tombe all of Alablastre with Armes all round, both quartered and impaled, but now defaced, in one of ye coates at ye foot-end I perceived that there was this coat, viz.: sable a lyon rampant Argent crowned or debrused with a bendlett gules; you shall see ye same in ye chancell window at ye upper end. There is another coat impaled with it, but the colours are worn off.

This is the tombe which the Abbat told Leland that it did belong to one Seagrave; but afterwards he told him that he heard that one Holcum a knight was buried there.

At ye feet of ye aforesaid Roger ye Abbats tomb is this: abbatis gessit vires: Hic qui requiescit Jo: han: de sut: tona dictus quem Criste Corona:

St. Edward Confesser was buried in this church }
 qu. see my little Engl. book of ye lives of } false.
 English Saints in Ang.

Jo. Leland in his Itineraries saith that Bishop Æschwine layeth buried there, his wordes are these: "and there yet remaineth ye image of freestone that layes on ye tumber of Bishop Æshwyn as appeareth by the inscription." At what time this man flourisht I cannot certainly tell, but I guess him to have been about ye yeare of our Lord 970, for his predecessor Ailnoth was consecrated the yeare 960, and his next successor saving one Eadnoth who was provost of Ramsey was slaine in battle by ye Danes anno 1016, but of him I find noe tombe nor not soe much as any remembrance of him there, he saith also that the report goes there that St. Birine was buried there, which is not unlikly, for he founded ye Church An. Dni. DCXXXV and therein satt as first bishop and according to Godwine in his catalogue of Bishopes he died about ye yeare 650 Decemb. 3 being 15 yeares after his first coming into this country and was buried in his owne church of Dorchester. This Godwin also reports that Wulfin or Wulfsin was consecrate yeare 1050 and died 1067 at Wincester and was buried in his cathedral church of Dorchester, being ye last man that satt bishop there.

At ye upper end of Dorchester Chancell on ye South side is 4 seats made in ye wall, with canopies over head all curiously wrought in stone, and over them is an Aunncient window, wherein is represented ye picture of St. Birine in his episcopall habitt, upon ye sea in a shipp, sayling for England with a many of shaven preists with him, in another light of ye Window he is preaching on ye sea shore to people, in another to King Kinigilsus, and in another obtaining leave of pope Honorius to adventure himselfe to preach Xt. unto ye infidells, in another baptizing K. Kinigelsus, Oswald K. of Northumberland standing there as his godfather.

In ye N. window opposite to ye former is ye stock of Jesse with their images all curiously cutt in stone in ye pillars of ye window, they have each of them a scroule of writing in their hands, of an Auncient character but now almost obliterated, there be seven or eight and twenty in number of ye Images some of them much defaced by ye soldiers.

The chancell hath been all painted over very gloriously with severall sorts of beasts, there yet remain a lyon a griffin.

On a black stone on the ground is this engraven: Here lyeth the body of William Winchester, who having continued Pastor of this towne of Dorchester for ye space of fortie yeares, deceased the 9th day of Sept. 1655.

I who from Scripture points of death inferr'd,
 Attacht by death do here now lye interr'd;
 Interr'd till Sion's King shall forth me call;
 For this the way to rise is first to fall.
 Hence, reader, learne from sin to stand aloofe,
 To pray, repent, mind heaven's assur'd roofe.
 So nature's slaughter-man shall not thou fright
 When bowed knees do make thee walk upright.

Upon one of ye North Pillars of ye Chancell is this written upon black and white marble: *Habes Hic quos quaeris (cliens) patronos, non aliter post fata, quam olim in vivis facile adeundos, geminos etiam caudicos unus nec multum loquax tumulus componit, geminos manes unum sustenet sepulchrum utrasque Justitiae lances. The Armes over this monument are :—

Partie per chevron b. and o. ; 3 leopards faces in cheif and a spreadeagle in base counterchanged of ye feild.

In ye south Isle adjoyning to ye Chancell are these observations.

There be three stones of the Draitons that lye under the south wall of the said Isle. On one for Sir John Draiton is this inscription :—

Praeclari titulis hec Drayton tumba Johannis
 Bina tenet oculis corpora juncta suis.
 Miles habet dextram, capit altera pars Isabellam
 Conjugio pactam, nunc tumulo sociam.
 Miles erat celebris, fortis, famosus in armis,

 C super M quadris bis septem communia¹ tres;
 His annis miles decedit in cineres.
 Terna dies mensis Octobris clauserat ejus
 Vitam, quem precibus queso juvate piis.

There are 4 scutcheons. Drayton arms, az., a bend between 6 cross crosslets fitchée or.

Another stone of the Draitons but the inscription toren off; a man all in armour with his wife lying by him; he hath 4 scutcheons about him, 2 at his head and 2 at his feet; one is az., 6 lyoncells rampant 3, 2, 1, or, on a canton a mullet or.

Another stone of the Draitons defaced; his arms notwithstanding do appeare on his monument, and his crest which is a Saracen's head is under his head.

Under ye North wall of ye Aforesaid Isle, is another flatt blew marble with a man on, all cut in Brass, and Armed, lying betwixt his 2 wives, his first wife being one of ye Draitons for his armes doth impale theires; there is this inscription remaining:—

Ye that behold and see this dedely grave
We beseche for cheryte hartily to praye
To ye lord of mercy ouere soules to have
That be here covered under clottes of claye
Deth from whome nothing a scape may
Hath of Perse Ideley & his two wives
By his Dredfull office sesid ouere lives

Something remote from ye head of Draitons tombes lays under a flat blew marble one called Gilbert Segrave, for soe Jo. Leland in his Itineraries names him. All the stones here in this Isle with their inscriptions are all defaced (being 18 in number) excepting one at the west end thereof which is cut in brass there being a seat placed over part of it.

Among them was a brass for Rob. Bedford and Alice his wife, which Robert died 15 Apr. 1491. Also for Will. Bedford who died 22 Apr. 1510. Also Agnes Bedford who died 6 Jan. 1519. Also Will. Yonge and Alice his wife, which Will. died 15 May 1430. Yonge's arms on the stone are lozengie arg. and vert, on a chevron g. 3 torteauxes or, on a chief g. a goat's head erased between 2 cinquefoyles or, impaling (1) or on a bend between 3 birds (choughs) gu. a crescent or (2) azure, 3 cleavers or hatchets or. These arms of Yonge were also boren by Mr John Young bishop of Calipolis (titular only) & warden of New College in Oxford who died 1526.

At ye east end of this Isle is an Altar, for there remaineth as yet ye steps to go up to it, and also an Altar within the upper end of ye N. isle next to ye Abbey, which I suppose did belong thereto for their dayly service, in this N. isle is noe monuments but one and it is defaced.

The Aforementioned south isle (I suppose) doth belong to ye parish and alwaies did and no more else, till such time that a rich man therein did purchase the est part of ye church for Augmentation.

In ye Body of ye Church are noe monuments but one, and it is at ye foot of ye Quier doore, which is a blew flat marble whereon is ye picture of a Crosier hardly discernable, which I believe is one of ye auncientest in all ye church.

In the North Isle joyning to Dorchester Church was this on a playne marble: Hic jacet dom. Joh. Marche, quondam abbas de Dorcaster, qui obiit . . . mensis Aprilis, an. dom. 1553, cujus, etc. Other stones there are also defaced and since removed. At the east end of this Isle hath been an altar but long since gone.

The tower that now is, is but of late standing excepting ye stairecase belonging to ye old tower which by relation farre exceded this. Upon the great Bell is this, protege Birine quos convoco tu sine fine.

Armes in ye Windowes in ye South Isle adjoyning to ye Chancell:—

[Extracts from Lives of Birinus, MS. Digby 112 and from Malmesbury.]

On ye south west side of ye towne (as Leland saith) stooode 2 parish churches, and a great deale of ye towne, there be often found numismata Romanorum: a little beyond toward ye meeting of Tame and Isis is a trench cast up from one river to ye other, it is cast up on both sides of ye trench, some say that (when Synodun which is in Barkshire hanging over ye River was a Roman garrison) this was to draw away ye River that run under ye garrison, some say againe that it was only a place of harbour for the beseigers to defend themselves.

Jo. Leland of Synodune: "The place is wonderfully diked about and stondith on a hill in Barkshire hanging over the Tamise, it is yn by estimation halfe a mile, and in it hath been some toune or as ye common voice sayth a castell in ye Brittaines time defacid by likelyhood by the Danes. At this time it beareth plentifully both barley and wheet, and numismata Romanorum be there found in ploughing; about this Synodune beginneth the fruitful vale of Whitehorse and so stretches by s.w. toward Faringdon quarters."

There is a very faire stone bridge running over the Tamise that hath 10 arches, built or repaired by Jo. Delabere bish. of S. Davids.

DRAYTON juxta BANBURY.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 61.]

The whole town stands upon a Summit, all Rock ; formerly called Little London, and tho' now a Village of not above 30 Houses, yet formerly of great extent, as is evident by hewn stones, burnt with fire, dug up frequently at several Distances from the Town. . . . The Church is regular and well built, consisting of 3 Iles. It is dedicated to St.
 Peter, the Sunday after which is a Wake kept. 3 Bells.
 Lords of the Mannor and Patrons have been the Copes of Hanwell, the Present is Sir Jonathan Cope (son to old Sir John the Baronet). It is a Rectory, Incumbent John Dover
 Rector [sic] of Magd. Coll. Oxon. Instituted 1688. £120.
 . . . In this Town is an Ancient Cross.

Thomas Gostelowe Gent. of Thrup Northants who for some years resided in this Place, was a constant frequenter of the Church, and receiver of the Holy Sacrament. This Gentleman in visiting Mrs. Martha Cleaver, often expres'd his Disbelief of any Future State, upon which, being then ask'd by her, what made him so seemingly Religious, he replied, he did it merely in compliance with Custom, and to look well in the Eye of the world. To confirm his opinion, he told Mrs. Cleaver that if he died before her he would acquaint her if there were any such State, but she with great reluctance refus'd accepting any Such satisfaction, (could it be) saying it would fright her out of her wits. In the year 1702 Dec. 1 this Gent. Died, the Body was laid out as usual, and the Funeral ordered to be in 3 Days after. His Son coming the next Day to view the Coarse found one of his hands on his Breast, and endeavour'd to pull it down by his side, but could not stir it, it seeming to be firmly rooted into the Breast, at length his son in the greatest Surprise, enquir'd if both hands were not laid down by his father's Side as is usual in Dead Bodies, and was by the persons who laid him out assur'd that they were. The Son made another attempt, and with all his strength fixing his feet against the Bed, tried to pull down the Hand but could not in the least stir it. It so happen'd that his friend Mrs. Cleaver being then in the House, she was call'd up, and immediately upon her taking hold of the hand it fell down with the greatest ease by his Side. The present Rector was with him when he died, and preach'd his Funeral Sermon. He further adds, that Mr. Gostelowe some little while before he Died, express'd a mighty pleasure in seeing Dr. Coward on the Soul advertized in the News;¹ which he order'd to be bought for him but never express'd his Sentiments to Him, as before Related.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 148.]

This Lordship was formerly in the possession of one Sir Giles Ardern kt. who married Phillippa a woman borne to very fair lands, so that the possessions of them both came to Lewis Greyvill the son of William Greyvill of Campden Glos., which Lewis married Margaret dau. and heir of the aforesaid Sir Giles, by whom he had this mannor where he died Aug. 28 1438, and is there interred in a verie faire Tombe, leaving William Greyvill his son and heire who married the dau. of one . . . Corbet, and departed this life within 2 years after, to which Will. succeeded Greyvill who wedded Katherine the sister and co-heir of Robert Pointz descended of Acton Glos. and had faire possessions with her, but since, partly by purchase, and partly by exchange they returned to the Pointz of Acton. The next that succeeded was John his son who was heir to the lordship of Miscote Warw. by a kinsman of his, scil. Sir Thos. Greyvill alias Cocksey, who died without issue male, and a little after I find this John in the 15 Hen. 7 to be one of the justices for the Gaole delivery there, these Grevilles bear for their armes: Or, upon a Cross ingral. within the like bordure sab. 10 annulets of the first, with a mullet of 5 points in the dexter quarter, their name is writt Greyvill or Greinvill, for it was of an elder date at Burmington Warw. than they of Campden, but whether all of the same line I cannot tell, and therefore of what family Will. Grevill, (the first of the following descent) was I cannot tell, but yet I may fairly conclude, that they were distinct families, because that Adam de Greinville of Burmington bore for his armes, (as appears by his seal in the reign of K. Hen. 3) a bend between 6 Lyonells ramp, but so much by way of digression. The next who succeeded John was Edward his son and Heir, who in the beginning of K. Hen. 8's days was buried in St. Annes Chappell in the church of Weston super Avon, according to the appointment of his will leaving issue John his son and Heir, and Fouke a younger son (from whom was descended the Lord Brooke by a marriage with a kinswoman and heiress of Rob. Willoughby and he of Eliz. Coheir of Richard Beauchamp) this John sat in that Parliament of the 30 of Hen. 8 which was so fatal to the Religious Houses, and being Knighted at the coronation of K. Edw. 6 dyed Nov. 25 in the year following, leaving Edward his son and Heir 30 years old, who married Margaret one of the daughters and heirs of Will. Willington of Bercheston Warw. and dyed a Knight 24 Dec. 2 Eliz. He was succeeded by his son and Heir Lodowick then twenty two years of age, who being an ambitious man, purchased licence from Queen Elizabeth in the 9th of her reign to build a Castle at Miscote in Warw. and to call it Mount Grevill, which he accordingly sett about on the top of the Hill, above a quarter of a mile southwards from the old Mannor House, as is visible by part of the fabric yet standing, and therefore the better to support his greatness, though he had very fair possessions in this and other countys, he very much desired the estate of one . . . Webb, a rich Batchelour, who had been his servant, and was then tenant to him at Drayton, to this end he contrived his murder, and forged a will (as it is credibly reported) in favour of himself: to accomplish this execrable design he invited him to his house in a Christmas, or Easter season, to make merry, which was then at Seasoncote Glos., here he hired two of his servants to strangle him in his bed, which being effected, he gave out in the house, that the old man was very sick, and not likely to live, upon which the minister was sent for to write his will, and one of the murderers conveyed into the bed with the dead body, about whom the curtains were close drawn, and he dolefully groaning as almost gone, so that being in this seemingly weak condition, and unable to give any directions how the will should be drawn, all that he was supposed to say was by answers to questions put to him viz: how and to whom his Estate should be disposed of to? which, in short, was to his master Lodowicke Grevill, excepting one legacy to an Attorney in Banbury, to stop his mouth, none else would expect anything, or at least not pretend to question the will, all this done, and the company desired to depart the room, that the sick man might repose himself a little, the news of his death was soon after spread about the House, upon which, people were called up, who finding him dead in the bed took care of his interment. And now all this pageantry was over, and Mr. Grevill thought himself secure enough of his large legacy, but that we may see how divine vengeance is incessant in prosecuting such bloody actions though carried on with the greatest privacy and cunning, this wicked murder was not long after brought to light after this manner, one of the assassins being in his cups at Stratford, Warw. dropt out some words among his Pott companions, that it lay in his power to hang his master, which being related to the other murderer by an earwitness then standing by, he presently acquainted Mr. Grevill with it, who upon this resolving to prevent the danger of any more such like talk, contrived that he should privately be made away with, to the accomplishment of this, shortly after, he sent them both out in the night upon some pretended business, by which the other took his advantage to dispatch him, and threw his body into a pitt of water, which afterwards floating was discovered by some passengers, and upon a strict enquiry when, and with whom he had been last seen, the Villain was questioned and immediately confessed the whole affair, thereby defeating his master throughout, for this they both had their tryalls at Warwick, where Mr. Grevill, to prevent the loss of his estate, stood mute, upon which he received sentence to be pressed, and suffered accordingly that death. To him succeeded Edward his second Heir in the inheritance of his Lordships. I have heard that this Edward in his younger days carelessly shooting an arrow upright from a long Bow, it fell upon his elder Brothers head and killed him, and that their Father had so little sense of this sad mischance, that he made a jest of it, by saying that it was the best shot he ever made in his life, but whither it was the judgment of God, to putt a period to the life of this Ludovic for those two horrid murthers, or for what other reason I pretend not to judge: certain it is that that fine whole estate was very shortly after strangely wasted, for so great were Sir Ed. Grevills debts, and leaving only Daughters, that his lands were exposed to Sir Arthur Ingram a Yorkshire Kt. who married Mary his fifth daughter. The name of the family of the Ardens was taken from their residence viz: in a woody soil, the old Britains and Gauls using the words in that sence as Mr. Camden has rightly taken notice of. It is observed that the first of this name after the Conquest, viz. Turkill (the son of Alwin Vice Com. temp. Reg. Confessor) did in imitation of the Normans take a surname, for it is evident, that he wrote himself Turchillus de Eardene in the days of King William Rufus.

EWELME.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 23.]

An account of all the Duty which ought to be done by the Minister of the Hospital here. In St. John's Chapel on the South side of the Church the little Bell is to be rung at 8 in the Morning and 4 in the Afternoon from Lady Day to Michaelmas. And from Michaelmas to Lady Day the same Bell is to be rung at 9 in the Morning and 3 in the Afternoon. The Minister is to see that the Pensioners all come to Prayers every day except Holy Days Wednesdays and Fridays unless they have leave to go out or else he is to stop a Penny for every time they miss. The Gutter upon the House next to the Church is to be weeded and kept clean. Every Pensioner is to weed his own Plat and keep the Cloysters clean and live peaceably one with Another. Upon these conditions they are to be paid every Fryday Morning upon Chaucer's stone 1^s 8. Upon any default they are to be punish'd by an Abatement of their Salary.

The Minister is to be a very sober man himself and keep good Hours, he is to have a Key of the Church, both the Cross Doors, of the Common Hall, the Treasury, Green Court Gate, Passage down to the Wood yard and the Poor mens. Every poor man is to make use of the Garden Key to go to the Necessary House or to weed their Gardens, get their wood in, or for any other Convenience.

The Master and School Master having a Key to all these Places to see that every Man Does his Duty as he ought.

The Minister likewise is to take care that the South side of the Church and Chancel, call'd St. John's Chapel are kept in good repair. And also all manner of Walls and Houseing that belongs to the Hospital. If any part of these premises are out of Repair then he is to let the Master know of it that it may be rectified in due Time.

Ewelme is situate on the Declivity of a Hill, its extent a mile, bounded East by Swinecombe, West by Benson, North by Chalgrove, South by Cromarsh. Lord of the Mannour Mr: Stevens of Henley. Patron the Bp. of Oxford as Regius Professour of Divinity. Curate the Rev: Mr. Thomas Cornish. There is an Hospital for 13 poor men putt in by the Crown. The Estates of this Hospital lye in Ramsbrig in Wiltshire Conch (i.e. Conock and Ramridge, both in Wilts.). Mr. Joseph Cornish of Tetsworth has a book about this Hospital. Visitor of this Hospital is the Regius Professour of Physick.

Tis fitt that English readers should be told
 In their own language what this tomb does hold
 Tis not a noble corps alone does lye
 Under this stone, but a whole family
 His parents pious care their name their joy
 And all their hope lyes buried with this Boy
 Tis lovely youth for whom we all made moane
 That knew his worth as he had been our own
 Had there been space and yeares enough allow'd
 His courage wit and breeding to have show'd
 We had not found in all the numerous rolle
 Of his fam'd ancestors a greater soule
 His early vertues to that antient stocke
 Gave us much honour as from thence he tooke
 Like buds appearing ere the frosts are past
 To become man he made such fatall hast
 And to perfection labour'd so to clyme
 Preventing slow experience and tyme
 That 'tis no wonder death our hopes beguiled
 Hee's seldom old that will not be a child.

HASELEY.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 426; also Wood E. 1. fo. 268.]

The best account to be given of this place is in the words of Mr. John Leland the antiquary, who was rector of this church in his second vol. and fol. 7.

From Ewelme to Haseley a v. miles by chaumpaine ground sumwhat plentiful of corne, but most laid to Pasturage. Haseley is thus divided into Grete Haseley, Little Haseley, Lacheforde, and Ricote. Great Haseley was of auncient time a lordship longging by many descentes to the Pyperdes whose maner place was there wher now is the Ferme place by the Church longging to Windesor College. These Piperdes were men of fair possessions, and the name of them as in the principal maner florish'd onto Edward the thirde dayes, about which tyme Pyperdes maner Place and the patronage of the Benefice of Haseley was gyven to the College of Windesore. The armes of Piperd apere yn the est window of the fair chancelle of Haseley Church. Little Haseley wher Master Barentine hath a right fair mansion Place, and marvelous fair Walkes topiarii operis, and Orchardes and Pooles holdith, as I learnid, of the maner of Piperds by Knight's service. Barentine of the cheif house of the Barentines, I find in another MS. was a rich Goldsmith in London and built a fair mannor house at Haseley. He also gave lands to the Goldsmiths Company. Lacheforde about the beginning of Edward the third's tyme was parte of the Pypaerdes; then it chauncid for a younger Sun of Piperdes of Haseley to do so valiauntly in Batelle agagn the Scottes that he was made Knight; and having no lande, bycause that his elder Brother was heire, desirid to have sum smaull portion of land; whereupon his Father gave him Lacheford to hold by Knight service of the maner of Piperdes in great Haseley. The stook of this yong Piperd Knight remaynid in Lacheford onto 80 yeres ago: when the last of these Piperdes left a daughter and heire, that was married to one Lenthaul, a gentleman of Herefordshir, whose sunne now dwellith in Lacheforde.

16 years since, this estate held of the College of Windsor was in the last of the family of the Lenthalls, who mortgaged it to Sr. John Cutler whose daughter the earl of Radnor married, to whom it fell, and was afterwards about 11 years since bought by George Blackall Esq who died 1709 and is now in the possession of James Blackall Esq. a youth about 14 at Eton School. Latchford a freehold estate was mortgaged at the same time and to the same persons. Lords of the mannour are the College of Windsor from whom by commission Mr. Blackall keeps courts; the first estate is about £400 per annum, Lachford is worth about £200 per annum; this estate is renewed once in 7 years; if permitted to exceed 11 a double fine is required; this after a long lawsuit was settled by act of parliament on the removal of Dr Robinson to London and at the same time £60 per annum settled on the curate who is at present the Rev. Mr. Thomas Vincent M.A. of St. Mary Magdalen College chaplain

On a white freestone in the chancell: Hic jacet Margareta uxor Andree Durel hic sepulta fuit mense Maii die 3^{tio} anno domini 1687/8

In the Chancell on a stone on the ground this in cap.: Carolus Sunnibank S.T.D. hujus ecclesie Rector Windsorensis canonicus quod mortale habuit hic deposuit 14 Oct. 1638 Veni cito domine Jesu.

On another like the former: Here lyeth the body of William Wellin gentleman Master of Arts who dyed 27 Sep. 1626 Resurgam.

The two next stones were laid at the charge of Edw. Corbett D.D. Rector of this church (sometime fellow of Merton College in Oxford) who died at London 5 Jan. 1657 and was buried here on the fourteenth of the same month, but no body took care to putt on or fill up the inscription on the said stone. He was born at Pontsbury in Shropshire, and descended from the antient family of the Corbetts there; his wife was Margaret daughter of Sr. Nathan Brent sometime warden of Merton College who was buried here by her son at the time specified on the stones.

On a large blew marble this : Heic Edwardus Corbett.

On another stone : Heic Margareta Corbet dormit MDCLVII.
Heic Robertus Corbet dormit MDCLV.

In the body of the church on a marble stone is this inscription, which seems to have been laid, at least made, by the deceased : Hic sepultus est Johannes Whistler, civitatis Oxon. Recordator, in quatuor Parliament. burgensis, in Greys inne London assessor, vere doctrinae amator et patronus, in lege et evangelio constans et fidelis.

On a like stone near the former : Here lyeth the body of Hugh Whistler. In virtue, old age and paternity Is much honor and nobility.

In the south isle on a stone on the ground : Quisquis eris qui transieris, sta, prospice, plora, sum quod eris, fueram quod sis; pro me precor ora. Hic jacet Willelmus Leynthall quondam dominus de Lachford qui obiit xxviii die mensis Junii an. dom. MCCCCLXXXVij Cujus [etc.]. Over all is a man in a winding sheet bearing this on a scrawl coming from his mouth : O bone Jesu optissime Jesu miserere mei. Armes are : 3 mullets on a bend between 2 Cotizes. Under all three boys and three girls kneeling.

On a stone not far from the former is this engraven : Here lyeth the body of Luke Taylor who was buried May 25 1647, who hath left by will a very considerable estate for Haseley for ever. The estate is £52 per annum at Drayton, £52 10s. per annum at Burcott, £26 per annum at Rufford in the parish of Chalgrove. Trustees are the Earl of Abingdon, Sr. John Doily, Mr. Wickham of Garsington, Rod. Hobbs of Chalgrove . . . Stone of Brightwell Baldwin . . . Carter of Thame, John Clerke of Aston elected by a decree in chancery.

At the upper end of the Chancell on the left hand is an ancient tomb built of free stone and covered on the top with a blew marble, being very large and long, the armes upon it are viz. 3 spread eagles, a coat belonging to the Barrentines. Quarterly, the Barrentines, and a bend between 6 cross cross-letts paté fitchee, 2 Bucks heads upon a cheif, impaling a fess charged with three Billets.

Three eagles displayed ut supra Barrentine quartering the former quarterings, impaling on a chevron 3 leopards faces, on a canton a cross botony.

The same again quartering the former quarterings impaling on a bend wavy 3 drakes or swans naiant, quartering a fess between 3 boores heads coup'd. Over all a helmet with banners worn out.

Upon a large blew stone near the former is the picture of a woman with two boyes and 3 girls kneeling below her with this inscription under them: Here lyeth the body of Marie Huddleston daughter of / Sr. William Barrentyne Knight and wief to Anthony / Huddleston Esquier, a gentlewoman of soch vertue / wisdom and godliness as wee have great cause to thanke / God for her and to have sure hope that she is exalted to a / crown of glorie, she died the 15 of Maie 1581.

On the right hand of the former is this cutt in brass: Orate pro anima Magistri Thomae Buttler quondam rectoris istius ecclesie qui obiit an. dom. MCCCCLXXXxiij cujus [etc.]. The armes over it are three cups covered.

Under the Communion Table in the middle of the chancell is this inscription cutt in brass upon a white stone with arms erased: Hic jacet Nicholaus Englefeld armiger quondam serviens domus computorum in hospicio domini Ricardi nuper regis Anglie qui obiit primo die Aprilis an. dom. MCCCXV cujus [etc.].

On the right hand of the chancell is an arch in the wall and in it is a stone like the cover of a Coffin whereon is a cross but not any inscription.

On the north side is this inscription on brass (Rawl. adds "now lost"): Here lyeth buried the body of Dame Julian Fowler, sumtyme wyffe of Sr. Richard Fowler of Ricote Knight, the which decessed the xij dai of August the yere of our Lord God M^cXXvij on whose soule [etc.].

Upon the surcoat of whose garment are these two coats quartered together: A chevron between 3 martlets erm. and 3 cinquefoyles. On the left hand of this stone is an arch made in the wall, in which I suppose was formerly laid some of the Fowlers or Quartermaines, for in the windows above it are these armes viz. Gules, a chevron between four hands coupéd or. (Quartermaine) impaling Arg., 2 hounds (as I take it) passant gules. The Quartermaines impaling Chequy, arg. and gules.

In the next window are these arms severally: Arg., 3 wolves heads erased gules and the Quartermaines.

In the uppermost window of the chancell are these armes: Erm., on a fess gules 3 Bucks heads trunked or.

Gules, 3 fleur de lis arg.

Arg., seme de cross crosslets sabl., 3 fleur de lis of the 2nd.

Arg., a chevron gules.

Or, three chevrons gules.

B., a bend arg. cotized or, between 6 Lyonells rampant, of the third.

Quarterly: (1) Fretty of 4 within every space a fleur de lys or; (2) Gules, 3 Lyons passant gardant or; (3) Gules, 2 Lyons pass. gard. or, a cheif paly gules and blew; (4) as the first.

Quarterly: Gules, a castle triple-towered arg.; Arg., a Lyon rampant sable.

Arg., a lion ramp. gules within a bordure sable bezantee.

Barry arg. and bl., a bend gules.

Chequy or and sab., a fess gules.

Arg., a bordure gobonated bl. and or.

Quarterly arg. and gules, a mullet in the first quarter of the second.

In the north window of the chancell: Quarterly arg. and gules, a fret or, in the second and third a bendlet sabl.

In the south window: Barry arg. and gules, on a canton of the second a mullett of 8 points of the first.

There are some of these former armes in other Lights of the chancell and likewise on the bricks at the upper end of the chancell.

At the lower end of the church in a south window is this inscription (now lost): Orate pro anima Bawdewyn Botteller et Isabell (or Mabell) uxoris ejus et pro bono statu Thomae Boteller. Something more there is that follows but it is partly broken out.

At the lower end of the church is cutt in freestone an armed man with his sword, thrusting it into a Lyon's mouth, all his armour and the rest of the stone has been painted over with escallops, from what part of the church this stone came, or whose it was none of the Inhabitants pretend to give any account, it is of a very large size.

On a brass plate partly covered by the pulpit stairs : Of your charite pray for the soule . . . Nicholas decessed the xvij day of . . . God MCCCCXXIX on whose soule [etc.]. In an Ile pewed with black and white square marblé built by Martha Blackall now wife to Richard Carter Esq. on the north side of the Chancell is fixed a fair large white marble Tablet supported with two Corinthian marble Pillars ; under an arch the Buste of a man and under that the following inscription : Subtus depositus est Georgius Blackall armiger uxoris amantis-simus pauperum perpetuus fautor omnibus flebilis obiit 27 die Maii Anno Domini 1709. Aetatis suae 25. Et monumentum hoc marito suo desideratissimo Martha ejus relictæ maerens posuit ; J. Piddington Oxon. fecit.

On a white diamond square stone on the ground : Underneath lyes Richard the son of Richard Carter Esq. & Martha his wife. He was borne the 13th. of December 1711 and died the 20th of January following.

Armes in the house of . . . Lenthall Esq. St. Nicholas. Patron of the Living, and L^d of the Manor the E. of Shrewsbury (who is building a fine Seat here) a Rectory of about £80 p. ann. Incumbent Mr. Brent A.M. of Christ Church Oxon.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 294 ; also Wood E. 1 fo. 157.]

In the year 1695 this mannor was sold by one Mr. Good-year of this place to one Mr. Milbank of Northamptonshire. In the east window 2 figures of the Virgin and St. John.

In the chancell on the south side is a raised monument built of freestone whereon is the proportion of a man engraven in armour and his wife on a brass plate and this inscription at their feet : Of your charity pray for the soules of John Asche-field Esq. and Elenour his wife, the which John deceased the XXV day of December in the yere of our Lord God MV^cXXI On whose souls [etc.] Underneath are four sons and four daughters. Armes on the monument are :

1. Tre oy.e slipt between 3 mullets (Ashfield).
2. The same impaling 2 pair of wings in fess.
3. The two wings impaling a lion ramp. parted per fess.
4. Armes of Ashfeild impaling, quarterly two pair of wings, Lyon ramp. parted per fess.
5. Quarterly, the two pair of wings, Lyon parted per fess.

In a window over the said monument is the proportion of a man in armour kneeling with four sons kneeling behind him, and the proportion of a woman in the same posture with as many daughters, and this inscription following underneath in old English characters : Orate pro animabus Johannis Ashfeld et Eleanore ux. or Ejus qui istam fenestram fieri fecerunt, anno domini MV^cXXij. Armes on his coat are Arg., a trefoile slipt between 3 mullets gules. Armes on her surcoat are Quarterly, 2 pair of wings or in fess, Arg., a lion ramp. parted in the middle per fess gules and sabl.

In the middle light between the said proportions is an angell kneeling holding before him the coat of Ashfeld impaling the aforesaid two quarterings. Above their heads are the painted proportions of St. John Baptist in the first Light, in the second the Virgin Mary, and in the third St. Christopher bearing Christ on his back.

In the east window of the chancell is Ashfield quartering only the lion ramp. parted per fess. In the south window are the armes of Ashfield by itself, and the two pair of wings quartering the aforementioned Lyon and this inscription underneath: Orate pro animabus Johannis Ashefeld armigeri et Elinore uxoris ejus qui istam fenestram fieri fecit an. dom. MV^cXXij.

Mr. Ric. Lee, Portcullis, in his itinerary into this county anno 1574 says that here was a tomb for John Semor and Eleanor his wife, who died 1521. I take this to be a mistake, it being meant for John Ashfeld.

Armes in the windows of the mannour house sometime belonging to the family of Ashfeld, afterwards to Goodere and afterwards to Milbank :

1. Arg. a trefoile between 2 mullets gules impaling Arg., on a cheif gules 2 mullets or (St. John).

2. Sab. 2 lyons ramp. back to back or, over the bottom of the escocheon which contains 2 bars undee arg. and az. (Fourde) impaling Or. 3 lyons pass. sabl. on the shoulder of the 1 a crescent or. (Carew of Bedington).

3. Ashfeld impaling Quarterly, gules 2 pair of wings in fess or, Arg. a lyon ramp. parted per fess gules and sabl.

4. Ashfeld impaling Quarterly, 1. Sabl., on a bend cotized arg. a rose between 2 annulets of the first. 2. Arg., a lyon ramp. arg. 3 . . . a lyon passant. 4. The same as the first.

5. Ashfeld alone.

6. A torteaux between 2 cinqfoiles or roses gules. The field below it is gules, that above it is azure.

Over the north dore leading into the church is the proportion of a man graven in stone either abbott, Bishop or Prior, with a crosier in his hand and the proportion of another person not in a gown with a crosier in his hand ; it might perhaps be placed here to denote that this mannor and church formerly belonged to the Priory of Worcester. On the north side a holy Lamb and on it a Cross.

HOLTON.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 28.]

Thomas Horwood Esq. Patron of the Living. Incumbent Dr Dunstir of Wadham Coll. Oxon. Feast kept here the Sunday after St. Bartholomew's Day, to whom the Church is dedicated. The Inhabitants all Copy and Lease holders under Mr. Horwood. A Free School here, endowed with £8 p. an. The Gift of Dr Edward Rogers formerly Rector here. He was head of Magd. Coll. Oxon.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 217; also Wood E. 1 fo. 240.]

This lordship was formerly in the possession of the Baldingtons whose heiress was married to Brome (as I think) the son of Sr. Nicholas of Warwickshire; and the heiress of the Bromes was married to Sr. Tho. Whorwood of Sandwell com. Stafford; the Armes over the following tomb are the four Quarterings of the Bromes: on the right side of it are impaled arg. on the left side the Bromes and Windsors viz. Gules a Saltier arg. between 12 cross crosslets pale or. Underneath are the Bromes and the Wightmans (as I take it), viz Arg. on a bend ingrailed between 3 Cornish Choughs legg'd and beak't gules 3 leopard's faces or.

Hoc monumentum

D. Johanni Brome de Halton in comitatu / Oxon. militi, mortuo 24^o die mensis / Julii anno domini 1558, et D. Margarettae conjugii / suae sorori et Haeredi Thomae Rous de Racley / in comitatu Warwici qui reliquerunt / unum filium et octo filias / necnon / D. Christophero Brome militi filio eorundem / mortuo 23^o die mensis Aprilis A. Dom. 1589 / et D. Alienorae conjugii suae filiae Gulielmi / Baronis Windsore de Bradenham qui / reliquerunt duos filios et quinque filias / charissimis Avis et / parentibus posuit / Georgius Brome Armiger.

This monument is set up in the wall on the north side of the chancell. There are the quarterings of the Bromes over it viz. Sabl., a chevron arg. charged with 3 spriggs of Brome proper within a bordure of the 2d.

2. Gules, a cross between four fishes hauriant.

3. Arg., on a chevron sabl. between 3 ogresses 3 quatrefoyles of the first, by the name of Baldington.

4. Sable, two barrs ingrailed az. Rous.
 The crest is a hand holding up a bundle of broome
 In the chancell upon a brass fixed to a blew stone :

Domino Thomae Whorwood de Sandwell in com. /
 Stafford militi, chara conjux Ursula filia et / haeres Georgii Brome de Halton in com. /
 Oxon armigeri e qua tres suscepit filios / filiasque duas hoc sacrum amoris memoriale / corde suo prius impressum, jamque lapide / hoc marmoreo expressum cum perpetuae /
 memoriae voto dicat dedicatque /
 Obiit die Septembris anno domini /
 1634 anno aetatis suae 52.

Over this is the four quarterings of the Whorwoods (being but 2 coats quartered) and the four quarterings of the Bromes impaled together.

On the right hand of this monument is another blew stone being one of Sr. Tho. Whorwoods daughters with the four quarterings of the Whorwoods upon it in the shape of a diamond.

In the south isle adjoyning to the church is the following inscription on brass under a person completely armed: Hic jacet Willelmus Brome qui hanc capellam / fieri fecit et multa bona huic ecclesiae / erogavit et obiit xvij die mensis Decembris anno domini MCCCCLXI cujus [etc.]. Some armes there are on this tomb, but the seats being built upon the upper part of it they are not visible.

On the right side of the last mentioned is another brass on a blew stone: Willielmo Brome qui in florentis aetatis lumine / circiter decem annorum natus obiit morte immatura / praerepto monumentum hoc amoris et maeroris / charissimi posuere parentes; dies obitus xxiii Sep. 1599.

This youth was brother to the aforementioned Ursula who by his death came to the Estate of the Family.

In the south window of this Isle are the 4 Quarterings of the Bromes.

In the east window of the Chancell are the four quarterings of the Bromes, and the Bromes and Rouses impaled. At the lower end of the Church in the window of the Tower are these armes: Arg., on a chevron sab. between 3 ogresses a martlett of the first. There is a crest over it set in a crown upon a wreath but by reason of the dust thereon one cannot perceive it. The next is the Baldingtons viz. a chevron between 2 Buckles in cheif, and a cup covered in base impaled together. Armes of Baldington, ut supra, impaling Arg., a chevron between 3 hierons sabl.

Without side at the upper end of the church is the Baldington's armes quartered with a Chevron both cutt in stone, whither or no this chevron was charged with 3 spriggs of Brome I cannot tell, the weather has fretted it so much. This church at the foundation as the Inhabitants say was dedicated to St. Bartholomew where his picture was drawn upon a door having a saltier or in his arms which now remains in the Belfry.

Other monumental inscriptions:—

In a chappell on the south side of the Chancell on a brass plate fixed to a grave stone is this inscription in cap: Here lyeth Humphrey Fitzherbert of / Begbrooke Esq. deceased in the true / faith of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ / 23 June 1617 being of / the age of 65 yeares; the son and heire of / John Fitzherbert of Uphall in the county / of Hertford knight, having issue / by Ursula his wife, daughter of Thomas / Waringe of Berry Hall near Henwood in the countie / of Warwick Esq., eight sons / and three daughters.

On another brass upon the same stone are the names of the sons, viz. : Robert, John, Humphrey, Thomas, Henry, William, Walter, Edmund; on a third brass are the daughters' names, Dionysia, Sibilla, Ursula.

Underneath these armes: Three lyons ramp. quartering eight coats with mantling, a crest a hand erect issuing out of a gauntlet dexter. Near to the former on another gravestone is this coat of armes, viz. : On a fess dauncetty between 3 Roses a crescent, about it is this engraven: Here lyeth the body of John Smith Gent. / Master of Arts and sometime student of Christ / Church, who departed the 2d. of May in the / yeare of our Lord 1654, aged 80 yeares.

This John was the son of Thos. Smith once Cook of Christ

Church, and had issue only one daughter who was married to Sir Wm. Moreton kt., and for her fortune brought about £1000 [so Rawl., Wood says £100] per annum in houses and land in this place, and nearer Oxford. By this lady Sir William had one son afterwards Sir James Moreton who sold that part of this estate lying here to one Mr. Pudsey a Lawyer.

Here is a monument set up in the wall by Sir Will. Moreton for his 3 children deceased. Anne dau. to Sir William Moreton by Anne his wife who was buried 25 Aug. 1670. William Moreton 3rd son who died 1652, Magdalen Moreton youngest dau. buried also with her sister Anne 25 Aug. 1670.

Beautie nor vertue, youth nor innocence
Against the strokes of death were our defence,
Three children to our parents deare wee lye
Loe now in hopes of blest eternitie,
Christ who dy'd for us is risen, not in vaine,
To justifie us yt wee may rise againe.

Quarterlie Erm. and gul. a goats head erased in the 1 and last.

There is a faire monument over their graves. An. 1668 Jan. 6 the Lady Anne Moreton wife of Sir Will. Moreton was buried in the Temple Church London, on the s. side towards the upper end. Sir William died in Serjeants inn about 23 Sep. 1672, buried by his Lady.

In the Chancell: At the side of the Chancell on a brass fixed to a grave stone is the picture of death in a winding sheet on one side of it is this, Credo quod redemptor meus vivit; on his breast, Et in carne mea videbo Deum Salvatorem meum; on the other side, Et in novissima die. . . The inscription under it is torn off.

On the north wall of the Chancell is a Table hanging with this Coat on it: Arg., on a bend ingrail. between 2 lions ramp. sab. 3 plates, quartering vert, a fleur de lis arg., impaling party per pale indented arg. and gules barry of 6 counter-changed, on the right side of this is Cupper impaling Arg., a fess and 3 lozenges in cheif sab., on the left hand Cupper impaling vert, a fleur de lis arg.; underneath this inscription: Here lyeth the body of Judith Cupper the wife of John Cupper late of Glympton in the county of Oxon. Esq. who was the daughter of Will. Peto of Chesterton in the county of Warwick Esq. by whom he had issue 16 children, and departed this mortall life the 31 of March A.D. 1634.

In Mr. Lee's visitation of Oxfordshire 1574 I find that John Cupper of Glympton (son of John Cupper of Stevington in Shropshire) married Audrey daughter of John Peto of Chesterton in Warwickshire Esq., and in the visitation of Warwickshire I find Will Peto of Chesterton Esq. (who died 1619) had a daughter named Judith married not unlikely to Mr. Cupper of Stevington.

Underneath the former upon a gravestone is this: Subsiniscunt [sic] contiguo solo / coelicolae Elizabetha Avia et / Edwardus Standard nepos / octennis filius et haeres / Johannis Standard Albomontani¹ / ejusdemque manerii dom. armig. / quem ei perperit Brigitta / Lenthallorum stemate / nobilitata qui fugiens Angliam intempestive / praepropere invenit fatum / Me sine abis dilecte neque / amplius ibimus una / Tristis et afflictim p. F. p. p. I. S. T. 1629. Over all are Standard's arms, viz. an arrow in pale, impaling Lenthall, which is a bend Lozengie quartering 3 mullets in bend between four cotizes.

3. Or, two bends azure. Doilly.

In the windows of the north isle, in which the inhabitants of Thrup, a hamlet in this parish, bury: Gules, 2 lions pass. arg.

Varry on a canton . . . a garb or wheatsheaf arg., the bond of which is or (the wheatsheaf is either arg. with the binding or, or else or and the binding arg.), but through length of time it seems imperfect, but I believe belongs to the name of Beche or de la Beech of Berks., for they bear, Vary, gules and arg., on a cant. of the first a wheatsheaf or garb. arg.

Arg., a chev. between 3 buckles sab. Croxford.

The same again impaling Barry of 6 azure and arg., underneath is written: Robertus Croxford et Johanna uxor ejus.

Gules, 3 Catherine wheels or. Chaucer or else Roet impaling (1) Az., a fess between 3 leopards faces or, De la Pole, quartering (2) Arg., on a bend gules 3 double wings of the first; the two quarterings singly.

At the bottom of the window containing the coats is this: Orate pro animabus Hugonis Holkot.

In the west window of the Church: Az., a fess between 3 leopards faces or, quartering Arg., on a bend gules 3 double wings of the 1. impaling . . . a lyon ramp.

In other windows of the church, some of which have been in the isles, and as I think, in the chancell:—

1. Sab., a lyon ramp. arg. crowned or.
2. Arg., 6 annulets gules.
3. Or, fretty of 3 gules, on a cheif sab. 3 bezants.
4. Or, a lyon ramp. sab.
5. Or, a bend cotized between 6 martlets sab.
6. Arg., cross cresule fitch, and 3 fleurs de lis sab.
7. Arg., a bend lozengie (or of 5 lozenges) arg.
8. Arg., 2 barrs nebule sab.
9. Arg., a lion ramp. sab.
10. Quarterly (1) Az., a fess between 3 leopards faces or, (2) Arg. a cheif az. (or gules) a lyon ramp. with his tail forked or.

11. The same quartering again with a file of three points arg., under which two quartered coats is this writ in an olde English character: Thomas Maunfelde.

12. Parted per fess arg. and sab. a dolphin embowed in the upper part, and a lamb or sheep passant in the lower, counterchanged.

13. Sab., a lyon ramp. arg. crowned or, there seems to be a fleur de lis on his shoulder.

14. The dolphin and the lamb as before.

15. The leopards faces quartering the lion ramp. under which is this written: Thomas Mawnfeld et Johanna uxor ejus.

16. Gules, 3 fleurs de lis or.

17. Arg., on a bend sab. 3 plates . . . under which is this wrote: Laurence Trieloc and Anne his wyffe an. 140 . . .

In several windows are the following crests:—

Or, hand issuing out of a wreath, holding a golden ball.

A Drum arg. on a helmet with a cap between.

A swan issuing out of a coronet.

A wing issuing out of a cap on a helmet.

The hornes of . . . issuing out of a coronet.

A swan issuing out of a coronet as before.

Rams horns, as I take them, issuing out of a cap.

A swans head and neck issuing out of a coronet.

KINGHAM.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 69.]

Ld. of the Manor Mr. Richard Lacey, keeps Court here about Easter. Patron of the Living, and Incumbent William Dowdeswell of Xt. Ch. Oxon. His Father about 30 years since rebuilt the Chancel, and a very fine Parsonage House, and made good Gardens. This Church is very neat, 5 Bells. Dedicated to St. Andrew. A Wake kept on Easter Monday.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 229; also Wood E. 1. fo. 129, and C. 10 fo. 11. anno 1675.]

The Church is dedicated to S. Nicholas. In the Chancell against the wall on the north side under a very old Stone arch lies the pourtraiture of a man in stone, he seems to have been a Prest, as having a vestment on: on it is neither inscription nor armes. On the Church yard side is the same sort of arch as the aforementioned, and under it the statue of a marble full length holding a spade by him. In the great window is the armes of Beauchamp, with the word WARWIC over it in large letters, the armes of the red Hastings quartering Valence, and over it in great letters PEMBROC. Or, a lion pass. gard. gules crowned of the field.

In another window on the north side is painted in the glass an old crucifix, having on each side our Lady and S. John, under our Lady these armes: Barry nebule arg. and bl., a plain cheif with a labell of 3 points Gules. Under S. John, Gules a bend between 2 cotices indented arg.

In the Chancell within the rails of the Altar on the north side on a black marble grave stone in cap.: Thomas Jackson A.M. Rector / of this parish dyed May the 2d. / an. 1676 aged 63 years. A chevron charged with 3 cinquefoyles between 3 Hawks heads erased.

On another black marble gravestone: In memory of Mrs. / Elizabeth Hacker / who dyed the 3d. of August / anno dom. 1697 / aged 63 years.

On another black marble gravestone in cap.: Thomas Hacker gent. / dyed November the / 8th anno dom. 1688 / aetat. suae 64.

On another black marble gravestone without the Altar ballisters: Memoriae Sacrum / Ricardi Hacker / generosi qui obiit quinto die Julii / anno Dom. 1715 aetatis suae 61.

On the west wall of the Chancell on a fair white marble tablet on whose top is an urn: Quam suavissime / dormiunt in pulvere cubili / Carolus et Lucy / amabiles mortis imagines / Haec occubuit Julii 6to. 1700 aetat. suae 3^o / Ille Julii 22 1705 aetat. 20^o / charissimi liberi / Gulielmi Dowdeswell hujusce ecclesiae Rectoris / vitam hic umbratilem deposuerunt / In certam spem / Illustrioris.

On a fair white oval marble tablet fixed to the north side of the east wall of the Chancell, supported by two Cherubims: H. S. I. / Gulielmus Dowdeswell A.M. / Hujus ecclesiae Rector / Hujusce Sacriarii / et vicini Parochialis Hospitii Fundator / Qui 7 Oct. 1711 / Repentinam Mortem occubuit / Repentinae non imparatus / Qualis vir fuerit / Testabuntur omnium lacrymae quibuscunque innotuerat. / abreptum dolet ecclesia / pastorem pium, vigilem, literatum: / liberalem virum egeni: / optimum conjugem marita: / charissimum Parentem liberi: / e quibus una Elizab. nimio dolore / super patris funere afflicta / Jul. 10 1712 obiit / et desiderium omnibus fecit / virginis / Piae Pudicae Formosae.

Within the South wall is fixed a brass Plate whereon is a Woman kneeling before a Table on which lyes a book open, behind her kneel three sons, one behind the other, and this inscription underneath them all: Here lyeth buried Katherine James the / wyfe of William James Doctor in Divinity / dean of Christchurch in Oxon and / Parson of this Church who departed this / life the 14 of Sept. 1588 aetat. suae 35 / leaving 3 Sons, Willyam, Timothie, and Ihon James.

A mirrour of womanhood whose bodie here doth lye
Hir soule in heaven with Christ hath endless Rest,
For body and soule in lyfe she did applie
To feare hym most whom only she lov'd best,

Hir faith to God, hir life without all spott,
 Hir ayd to poore, shall never be forgott ;
 You then that lyve and must perforce depart
 Learn this one lesson of this worthy wife
 In life and death on God to fix your hart
 A godly death ensueth a holy life.

In the chancell on a large white grave stone in caps:
O vir quicunque es pusillum / hoc terrae quo meum tegitur / corpus mihi ne inideas. / Ex. Luc. cap. 6 verse 26 / Vae vobis cum laudaverint vos omnes homines. / Unton Croke / serviens ad Legem obiit / 28 die Januarii an. dom. / 1670 annoque aetatis suae 77.

This Unton Croke was fourth son of Sir John Croke Kt. one of the Justices of the King's Bench, married Anne the daughter and heir apparent of Rich. Hore of Merston in Com. Oxon. by Marie his wife. By which Anne he got half a yard land at Merston worth £50 per annum and built a house thereon. Shee died at Merston, and was buried in the church there.

He had issue by her Richard (to be taken notice of in his proper place) (2) Unton, an active man for the parliament cause in the time of the rebellion, was a Captain of Horse, afterwards a major, and at last a Colonell, which however was conferr'd on him for his service in the west against Penruddock, Grove, and other Loyalists, when they rose at Salisbury 1654-5. His father also (Unton before mentioned) was upon that account made a serjeant at law by Oliver Cromwell 21 June 1655. (3) Charles a great Traveller occasioned by the wildness of his youth, authour of a book under the name of Rodolphus, entitled Youths Inconstancy printed 1667 wherein is an account of his rambles. He lives now by gaming to maintaine his wife and children.

[Wood, E. 1 fo. 192.]

In the chancell on a plaine white stone lying in the middle of the chancell was an inscription which told us that under it was deposited the lady of Edm. Taverner of Soundiss Esq. fourth son of Rich. Taverner of Woodeaton councellour at Law and justice of the peace, which Edmund when he had lived a long time with the greatest praise died most happily the 27 of Aprill an. 1615, of his age the 65. E. T. (i.e. Edm. Taverner) his sad son put the said epitaph on the stone. But this epitaph being worn out by fire continually made on this said stone for several yeares by the soldiers in the rebellious times and afterwards the stone it selfe broken in several pieces when it was taken up to bury Joh. Taverner his son, a new stone was laid in its place and this following engraven thereon by my appointment and the armes of Taverner and Hales impaled. Arg, a bend fusil. sab. impaling g. 3 arrowes with their head downward arg.

P.M.S. of Edm. Taverner of Soundess Esq. the fourth son of Richard Taverner of Woodeaton [etc., as above]. With him also resteth the body of his beloved wife Lucy, dau. of Christopher Hales of Warwickshire Esq., who dying also at Soundeys was buried neare this stone 30 Aug. 1638. Dorothy dau. of Edmund Taverner was buried here 20 June 1621. Anne another dau. buried the 11 of Oct. in the same grave. John Taverner Esq. one of the sons of the same Edmund was buried neare this stone whose monument is on the wall adjoining.

On the south side of the east window of this chancell is this engraven on an alabaster monument: Near to this place rest the bodies of John Taverner of Soundess Esq. sometimes High Sherriff of this countie, and Judeth his wife, one of the daughters and coheires of John Smithes of Wrington in Somersetshire Esq. by whome he had issue Edmund buried June 25 an. 1648 in the great church at the Hague in Holland in the 19 yeare of his age. John of Greys Inn, who dying 1657 aged 25 yeares was buried in S. Andrew's church in Holbourne London. Richard buried May 9. 1692 neare this place, aged one yeare and $\frac{1}{2}$. Lucy buried June 16 1648 neare this place aged 17 yeares, and Mary who being married to John Harrys of Silkstede in Hampshire became at length heir to her father's lands. The said John died Jan. 19. 1674 aged 84 yeares, and his wife followed him May 17 1676 in the 68 yeare of her age.

Arg., a bend fuzille sab. impaling on a chev. s. between 3 oaken leaves slipt vert, each charged with an acorn or (or rather propr.).

A fair monument on the east wall of the Chancell on the north side of the east window: To the memory of Judeth Harris daughter of John Harris Esq. of Silksteed neare Winton, and Mrs. Mary Harris the onlie daughter of John Taverner Esq. of Soundess neare this place, Borne Feb. 26 1658, deceased July 29 1674, and lyeth here interr'd in hopes of a blessed resurrection.

Know Reader, That if Piety, Prudence, with Innocence or beauty, could rescue from the grave, shee had been immortall, since these are ineffectuall, Dust and Ashes, Read thy owne destiny, And prepare to follow.

Armes on this monument are as I remember these viz:
(1) Arg., a bend fusille sab. (the ancient armes of Taverner).

(2) Or, on a fess az. between 3 aspys or snakes vert (one of their ears lying on the ground and the other stop'd with the end of their tayles), 3 doves arg. membred gul. Taverner. (3) Erm. on a chev. sab. 3 crosses ingrailed arg. Sylvester of Norfolk (4) is as the first. Coat no. (2) was granted to Richard Taverner of Woodeaton Esq. by Will. Harvey, Norrey K. of armes an. 1551 14 Nov.

On a brass plate fixed to the north wall of the chancell is this: M.S. / Anno salutis 1637 Sep. 22 / Edmund Taverner / Fourth son of Edmund Taverner of Soundes in the County of Oxford Esq. after 12 yeares painful service in court, dying there rests here from his labours.

Religious, honest, grave, wise, just,
Us'de in affairs of greatest trust,
And living faithful to the end,
To God, his king, his Lord * and friend
He dy'de assured to be possest
Of everlasting life and rest.

Sic vivens obiit, qua cadit arbor erit.
